The most significant fact is the successful implementation of the Antarctic Treaty Summit at the Smithsonian Institution from 30 November to 3 December 2009 (www.atsummit50.aq), as reflected in the final agenda (Appendix 1). The Antarctic Treaty Summit involved nearly 200 participants from 27 nations. Sponsorships and endorsements for the Antarctic Treaty Summit came from 39 organizations around the world. The main results from the Antarctic Treaty Summit are:

Regarding the main financial aspects of the Antarctic Treaty Summit – along with registration fees and underwriting from the Smithsonian Institution for the venue – the funding from diverse benefactors, patrons and sponsors generated a budget of $356,081.96 USD that balanced all costs to implement the Antarctic Treaty Summit, as described in the detailed accounting by the University of California Santa Barbara (Appendix 2). With the exception of the administrative costs and a participant reimbursement to Prof. Berkman at the University of Cambridge – the 50,000 Euro grant from the Prince Albert II of Monaco Foundation was distributed by the University of California Santa Barbara for travel and other invited participant expenses in the Antarctic Treaty Summit (see Item 3 and Table 2 below).

If this report is the final report, please complete point (I) above (summary of the interim technical & financial report for the past year) and also draw up a global summary for the entire duration of the project concerning the technical and financial aspects, which sums up in one page the most significant facts with regard to the whole project, the main results obtained, in addition to the main findings, lessons learnt and lines of action for the future or for similar projects.

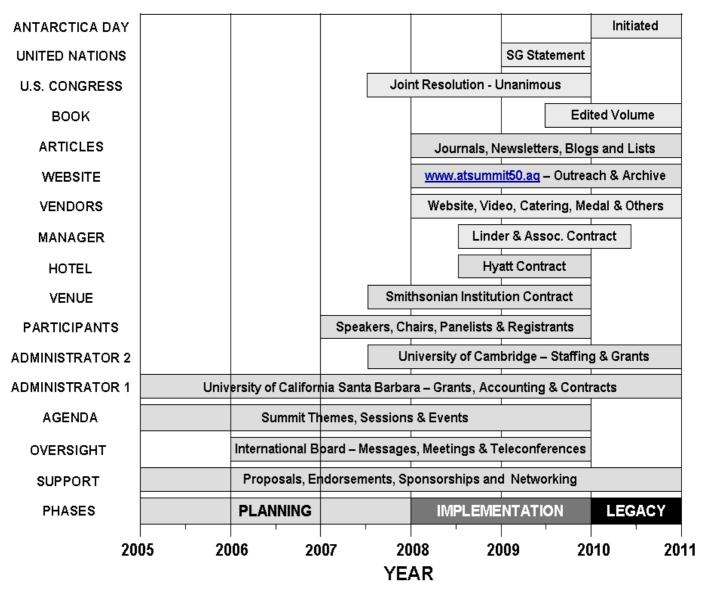

FIGURE 1: Global summary of activities for the planning and implementation phases of the Antarctic Treaty Summit: Science-Policy Interactions in International Governance (www.atsummit50.aq), which was convened at the Smithsonian Institution from 30 November – 3 December 2009, with the legacy phase continuing into the future. The actual planning for the Antarctic Treaty Summit began before 2005 and the legacy activities are anticipated to extend beyond 2011.

The main results of the Antarctic Treaty Summit are described in Item 1 (above). The legacy products of the Antarctic Treaty Summit will include: (1) various presentations at international meetings; (2) the internet archive of digital materials from the Antarctic Treaty Summit (www.atsummit50.aq); and (3) ongoing publications, especially the edited book that is being published by the Smithsonian Institution Scholarly Press. In addition, a significant legacy of the Antarctic Treaty Summit is the Antarctica Day, which will continue each year on December 1st – "the day in 1959 when our civilization set aside nearly 10% of our home planet for "peaceful purposes only." Antarctica Day is being coordinated by the Foundation for the Good Governance of International Spaces (www.ourspaces.org.uk) with initial funding from the Marine Mammal Commission (www.mmc.gov) and partnership with the Commonwealth Foundation (www.commonwealthfoundation.com/).

II - Interim or Final Technical Report (5 pages max)

The technical report is established in reference to Appendix I of the agreement: Project description. It concerns the elapsed project period. (including that for the final report).

1. Description and schedule of achievements for the elapsed period

1.1. Please provide a description, including details regarding the schedule, the main actions achieved.

See Appendix 1 (Final Agenda for the Antarctic Treaty Summit)

1.2. Identify and explain any delays, if applicable, and specify the remedial action already implemented or envisaged for the future.

There were no delays. The Antarctic Treaty Summit was convened at the Smithsonian Institution from November 30 – December 3, 2009, as planned (see Fig. 1).

2. Goals and initial results achieved

2.1. Describe and analyse quality and quantity-wise (result indicators) the goals achieved concerning the anticipated results.

Main goals of the Antarctic Treaty Summit were to identify lessons, stories and precedents from the Antarctic Treaty System that have legacy value for the wise governance and rational use of regions and resources beyond national jurisdictions. It was anticipated that broad societal awareness about the Antarctic Treaty would emerge from the international presentations, multimedia dissemination and networking.

Figures 2 and 3 demonstrate that broad societal awareness was achieved with nearly 400,000 visits to the Antarctic Treaty Summit website (www.atsummit50.aq) between April 2009 and February 2010 from more than 100 nations. Broad international engagement in the Antarctic Treaty Summit is further reflected by the participants from 27 nations and support from 39 organizations around the world (see Table 1 in Item 3.2 below).

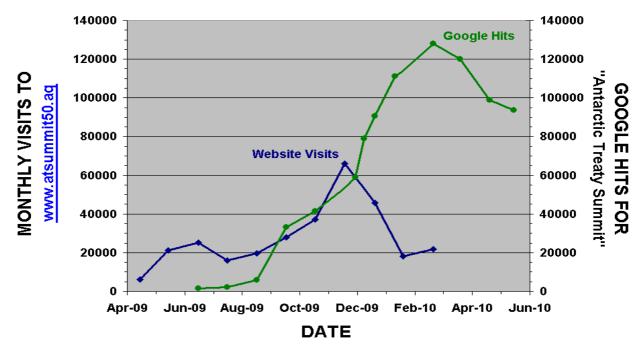

FIGURE 2: Two independent metrics of internet engagement with the Antarctic Treaty Summit website (www.atsummit50.aq). Monthly total visits to the website exceeded 60,000 during the period of the Antarctic Treaty Summit (30 November – 3 December 2009). Number of 'hits' on Google (www.google.com) for the term "Antarctic Treaty Summit" in quotes, which was searched on various dates, exceeded 120,000 in March 2010, reflecting the broad momentum of international interest following the Antarctic Treaty Summit.

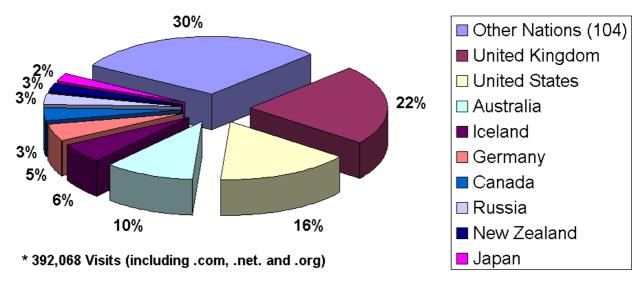

FIGURE 3: International demographics of all visits (sum of monthly visits in Figure 2) to the Antarctic Treaty Summit website (www.atsummit50.aq) for the period of April 2009 to February 2010.

The quality of the global outreach from the Antarctic Treaty Summit is reflected by the products that are described in Item 1 (above). These and other products from the Antarctic Treaty Summit (i.e., video files, audio files, powerpoint files and text files) will be searchable from the current website (www.atsummit50.aq), which is being re-engineered into an stable archive that will be publicly accessible in Fall 2010 and online for at least the next 5 years. Creation of this archive is provided by funding from the Marine Mammal Commission.

2.2. Identify the consequences and impact of the project vis-à-vis the beneficiaries.

The consequence and impacts of the project are reflected by the quality of the products (see Item 1 above), global outreach (Figs. 2 and 3) and legacy activities that will continue into the future (see Item 1a).

2.3. Identify and explain any discrepancies (if applicable) and give details of the remedial action already implemented or envisaged for the future.

The goals of the Antarctic Treaty Summit were achieved, as reflected above.

3. Partners and subcontractors (if applicable) involved

3.1. Briefly describe the role and actual contribution of each player.

The international, interdisciplinary and inclusive spirit of this golden anniversary celebration for the Antarctic Treaty stemmed from the collaboration among its Board Members: Prof. Paul Arthur Berkman (Chair, United States); Dr. Maj De Poorter (New Zealand); Prof. Edit Fanta (Brazil); Dr. Marie Jacobsson (Sweden); Dr. Yeadong Kim (Republic of Korea); Mr. Michael Lang (United States); Dr. José Retamales (Chile); Prof. David W.H. Walton (Vice-Chair, United Kingdom); Judge Rüdiger Wolfrum (Germany); Prof. Oran R. Young (United States); and Prof. Abdul Hamid Zakri (Malaysia). We gratefully acknowledge the nearly 200 participants from the 27 nations who contributed to the Antarctic Treaty Summit as well as the 39 national or international government agencies; non-governmental organizations; foundations; corporations; and universities from around the world that made this celebration a success.

We thank the following three Summit Benefactors who provided essential support for the Antarctic Treaty Summit. With continuous enthusiasm from the start, the Tinker Foundation enabled the overall Summit planning and implementation and we are grateful for the support from Ms. Renate Rennie (Chief Executive Officer and President). The Prince Albert II of Monaco Foundation (Monaco Office) provided key support for the speakers and panelists to attend this event in Washington, DC and we gratefully acknowledge the personal involvement from His Serene Highness Prince Albert II. Without enthusiastic support from the Smithsonian Institution, through the Office of the Under-Secretary for Science and the Office of Special Events and Protocol, we would not have had use of the prestigious National Museum of Natural History and National Air and Space Museum as well as timely publication of this book and we especially thank Dr. G. Wayne Clough (12th Secretary) for his commitment to the Summit activities.

We thank the Summit Patrons who supported key elements of the Antarctic Treaty Summit. The United States Marine Mammal Commission supported the website and subsequent archive (http://www.atsummit50.aq) as well as a mini-documentary about the Antarctic Treaty System and other outreach strategies. The Office of Polar Programs at the United States National Science Foundation supported the poster session and video interviews that were integrated into mini-documentary about the lasting values of the Antarctic Treaty for humankind. TransPolar (a Raytheon / AECOM company) supported the gala at the National Air and Space Museum on the 50th anniversary of the Antarctic Treaty. The Prince Albert II of Monaco Foundation (United States Office) contributed to the audio-visual logistics for the plenary presentations and panel discussions as well as the performance by the Keystone State Boychoir. The Eisenhower Institute at Gettysburg College contributed to the lunches and coffee breaks that promoted interactions among participants. The United States – United Kingdom Fulbright Commission supported critical coordination and networking through the University of Cambridge.

We thank the Summit Sponsors who contributed to the diverse participation and logistics for the Antarctic Treaty Summit. Contract management was through the University of California Santa Barbara (Bren School of Environmental Science & Management) with additional fiscal administration by the University of Cambridge (Scott Polar Research Institute). The following organizations contributed to the travel, lodging and registration costs of participants: American Geophysical Union; Foundation for the Good Governance of International Spaces; Greenpeace; Japan Polar Research Association; KBR; Korean Polar Research Institute; Korea Supporters Association for Polar Research; Lindblad Expeditions; Pew Charitable Trusts; Stanford University (Department of Earth Sciences): United Nations Environmental Programme: Universiti Sains Malaysia (Centre for Global Sustainability Studies); and World Wildlife Fund – Australia (Antarctica and Southern Ocean Initiative). The Association for Polar Early Career Scientists conducted the Antarctic Treaty essay contests (which involved submissions from twelve nations) and The Explorers Club covered the costs for the winning essayist. The United States Geological Survey covered the costs of the musical performance by Rive Gauche at the gala. The Arctic Governance Project and Aspen Institute (Dialogue and Commission on Arctic Climate Change) contributed to the workshop on Antarctic lessons for the Arctic. The Scientific Committee on Antarctic Research contributed to the workshop on the history of international spaces.

We thank the organizations that provided key outreach through their Summit Endorsements: American Association for the Advancement of Science; Fulbright Academy of Science and Technology; International Council of Science / World Meteorological Organization Joint Committee for the International Polar Year; National Geographic Society; The Royal Society; United Nations University (Institute of Advanced Studies); United States House of Representatives; and the United States Senate.

Finally, such a complex meeting could not have been executed so smoothly without professional assistance of the highest order and we thank Linder & Associates for their excellent event management.

3.2. Update the "partners and sub-contractors" chart in Appendix I, § 15 of the Agreement. Please specify any changes (if applicable) regarding the obligations of each player. See Table 1 (below).

4. Means and resources

4.1. Describe the means and resources implemented for each item of expenditure set out in the annual estimated budget in appendix II of the Agreement.

The means and resources are detailed in Appendix 2 (Final Budget).

4.2. Identify and explain any discrepancies (if applicable) and give details of the remedial action already implemented or envisaged for the future.

The only discrepancy was the over-estimated funding from registration fees for the Antarctic Treaty Summit, which was compensated by significant support from additional sponsors and patrons (see Table 1 and Appendix 2 – Final Budget).

5. Communication strategies carried out

5.1. Specify the targets, the type of action undertaken and the media used.

A primary goal of the Antarctic Treaty Summit was broad societal awareness of the lessons, stories and precedents from the Antarctic Treaty System that have legacy value for the wise governance and rational use of regions and resources beyond national jurisdictions. This goal was pursued by: (a) internet dissemination via a primary Antarctic Treaty Summit website and archive (www.atsummit50.aq); blogs; Youtube® videos; news reports; list servers; and networking with partner organizations through on their websites (Figs. 2 and 3; Item 1 above); (b) audio interviews broadcast on radio shows (e.g., BBC); (c) print interviews and photographs for newspapers and magazines; (d) press releases from various partner organizations listed in Table 1; (e) journal articles (see Item 1 above); (f) edited book published by the Smithsonian Institution Scholarly Press (see Item 1 above); (g) direct dialogues with policy-makers, as reflected by the joint resolution that was adopted with unanimous consent in the United States Congress, statement from the Secretary-General of the United Nations and collaboration with HSH Prince Albert II of Monaco (see Item 1 above); and (h) other legacy activities, including Antarctica Day (see Item 1a above).

5.2. Describe as accurately as possible the ways, the various media and occasions used to communicate about the support of the Prince Albert II of Monaco Foundation.

The tremendous support of the Prince Albert II of Monaco Foundation and the direct involvement of HSH Prince Albert II of Monaco were explicit in all of the communication strategies described in Item 5.1 (above). Specific examples include the article by His Highness in Science and the Foreword in the edited book that will be published by the Smithsonian Institution Scholarly Press (see Item 1 above). There also are thousands, literally, of website links that reference the involvement of His Highness and/or the Prince Albert II of Monaco Foundation (e.g., www.life.com/pictures/vcWTh8okw62/Prince+Albert+II+Monaco+Speaks+Antarctic+Treaty).

6. Alerts, incidents or major malfunction occurring during the period

6.1. Specify the way in which these were managed and the remedial action put into place.

There were no major alerts, incidents of malfunctions. Implementation of the Antarctic Treaty Summit operated smoothly because of good communication between the International Board, Smithsonian Institution, event manager and diverse partners (Fig. 1).

7. Conclusions

7.1. Give an overall assessment for the elapsed period and progress of the project.

The Antarctic Treaty Summit was a tremendous success, in large, because of the excellent support from the Prince Albert II of Monaco Foundation and the personal engagement of HSH Prince Albert II. There is significant momentum from the Antarctic Treaty Summit that is now being translated into meaningful legacy activities (see Items 1 and 1a).

7.2. Specify the main impact of the activities and the project.

Celebrating the first fifty year of the Antarctic Treaty – the main impact of the Antarctic Treaty Summit is an enhanced appreciation around the world of the science-policy interactions that enable humankind to successfully manage an entire continent and nearly 10% of our world for "peaceful purposes only" (see Item 1; Table 1; Figs. 2 and 3)

7.3. Identify the main changes or adaptations to make to the project (in terms of goals, schedule, resources...)

The Antarctic Treaty Summit has been successfully implemented. Legacy activities are in motion to perpetuate the lessons learned from this international, interdisciplinary and inclusive dialogue on the 50th anniversary of the Antarctic Treaty "with the interests of science the progress of all mankind" (see Items 1 and 1a above).

Illa- Final Financial Report - only to be filled in for the final report

If this report is the final report, please complete point (III) above (interim financial report from the last year) and also draw up a global financial report for the entire duration of the project.

The project duration was 8 months and there was no interim report from last year.

The financial report is established in reference to Appendix II of the Agreement: Global budget of the project. It is dated and signed.

It must recapitulate for the whole duration of the project:

All expenditure made and provide an explanation for any significant variance (>10%). Receipts for expenditure do not have to be furnished but the original receipts must be filed by the beneficiary and be available should the Foundation wish to carry out an audit.

Resources obtained and provide an explanation for any significant variance (>10%). Any entry or withdrawal of a financial partner or sponsor must be stipulated and explained.

The 50,000 Euro award from the Prince Albert II of Monaco Foundation was distributed without deviation, as described in Table 2. The distribution involved volatile currency exchanges with conversion rates between Euros, British Pounds Sterling (\mathfrak{L}) and US Dollars (\mathfrak{L}) that varied widely over time. Table 2 describes the distribution of funds in relation to conversion rates on 1 December 2009 as a reference. Calculated from Table 2, the total distribution of Prince Albert II of Monaco Foundation funds from both the University of Cambridge and the University of California was 50084.47 Euros, which is slightly greater than the award.

TABLE 2: ALLOCATION AND DISTRIBUTION OF PRINCE ALBERT II FOUNDATION FUNDS
Nature of Expenses	Prince Albert II Foundation Allocation (Euros)	University of Cambridge Distribution (Euros)	University of California Distribution* (Euros)
Travel and Participant Expenses	47,619.00	467.75	47,235.72
Administrative Costs	2,381.00	2381.00
TOTAL	50,000.00	2848.75	47,235.72

^{*} See Appendix 2 (Final Budget) with Line Item of $71,316.55 that was received by the University of California Santa Barbara from the University of Cambridge for the Prince Albert II Foundation grant.

Currency Exchange Rates on 1 December 2009 (Euro Per $USD = 0.662338851 / £GBP Per $USD = 0.601568561 / Euro Per £GBP = 1.10102)

Table 3 describes the revenues for the Antarctic Treaty Summit, as documented in Appendix 2 (Final Budget), from the original sources identified in Appendix II of the Agreement and additional sources. It was projected that $180,000 in revenues would be generated from registration fees. The combination of registration fees and the additional sources of revenue generated $164,443.25 (Table 3), which is less than a 10% deviation. The total of all revenue sources ($356.081.96) balanced the diverse costs for the Antarctic Treaty Summit, which included $13,266.36 in taxes because the tax-exempt status for the University of California was not valid in Washington, DC (see Appendix 2 – Final Budget).
